Hi Alex, nice page, I'm a spanish student (Computer Science) and my best times are 4 (small), 29 (medium) and a wonderful 82 in the expert one done today 15-3-99 after more than 2 years playing hard (I've other good times in expert level, 85,88,89,90...) It's a pity the people cheating in a thing as serious as winmine, and I would be very happy if there were any way of submit the records via Internet without possibilities of cheating, until that day arrives, we have to believe what people says. Two years ago my best time was 128 and I wouldn't believe any one who told me his best time below 100 but now I've to alough times below 75 seems very incredible to me.

Hello everyone. Congratulations for your best times. Even if you've lots of luck, you have to be very good. My best times for the moment are: beginner 8 seconds / intermediate 45 seconds / expert 147 seconds. I'm trying hard to do it better. Looking forward to your new best times. Kind regards.

Hi freaks. (Don't be silly. Anyone who plays this game hour after hour must be one... So me too!) I'm really interested in the world record on expert level. I've read about something around 55 seconds. According to my personal score of 90 seconds this sounds plausible. So, I would be really pleased if you publish the value on your webpage. Please don't send me EMail. I'm sure you recognized my identity is all fake. Sorry.

Hey. Always like to read about other minesweeper addicts. As for me, I'm probably the definition of one. There have been days in which I've played for at least 6 hours and I've even gotten a slight case of RSI from playing this great game. This has resulted in some pretty good times : 4-B, 24-I, 66-E. As for the world record, The fastest time I've seen that has been generally accepted is 51 seconds. I'm still far away from that, but I think I might be to beat one minute in the future. Bye now.

I must say, it is scary reading all these "Expert" times of less than 100 seconds - I have yet to see someone do that with my own eyes. Anyway, my personal bests are not all that great, but I definitely did not cheat! Beginner: 6 seconds, Intermediate: 37 seconds, Expert: 115 seconds.

Expert=99s/Inter.=33s/Beg.=1s. All I did was click one time to get the beginner score. Other than that, my best is 4s. Now, I am trying to beat a custom board that's as large as possible (24X30)? with 200 mines. I have come close, but that is definitely not a speed level.

Don't do it any more, but I mineswept my way through grad school. 119/expert, 37/intermediate, 4/beginner. Its impressive to see the fast expert times, but can anybody beat my beginner time? I doubt even a cheater could do that.

EGADS, 90 seconds. My current record is 92. Also, for the sake of keeping things correct, last I heard the world record was 59 seconds or something. scary. Anyways, it's good to see that I am getting feedback here! I'll be moving the site to a new location in the near future, seeing as I will have my own server. But anyways, happy minesweeping!

Toronto, Ontario Canada - Sunday, November 22, 1998 at 01:21:53 (EST)

Nov 98/Just broke my expert level again, and had to share immediately if only virtually. 90 seconds. I may not be "the bomb" since I've heard the world record is 75 seconds, but I'm feeling pretty smug. My best intermediate level score is 30 seconds, and beginner (if one wishes to go so low!) is 6 seconds. While speed is most important, no one can deny that luck and the pattern you get has a lot to do with your prospects. Cheerleading: I remember striving to beat 100 on intermediate. I remembering despairing of ever clearing the expert field at all. All of us need to go through the same process of learning patterns. Others have taken the time to illustrate these patterns, but I don't have the patience for that. The more quickly you recognize patterns, the less you'll have to guess (mortal). When you can clear intermediate most of the time, you're ready for expert. I will make one suggestion, though. Remove the ? option from your mouse - if you need to erase a misplaced flag, it only slows you down. If you don't know, leave it blank! 'Nuff said. Re: that xyyzz cheat - when you get as fast as I am, it only slows you down. Your brain is waiting for your hand to catch up with flag placement. Great to hear from other "mindsweepers" K

What does give you to cheat on this game - its only fun if you run against time. Bye, don't play all night long, thats what I learned after somme years... Hanne.
