Okay, okay, it's pretty lame-o to post notes on my own page, but I had to test to see if it works. Oh yeah..... my best time on expert Minesweeper is 217. I know its not great but I have a life! :D

Bert van Oortmarssen berto@and.nl Sat Oct 26 05:54:34 PDT 1996

Hi Pat, thanks for the nice words on my Itsmine solver. By the way, the first time the program runs it will detect if it is the windows 3.11 or win95 minesweeper (because the sneaky authors of winmine changed the bitmaps of the digits a little bit).

Bye,

Bert

Another really cool minesweeper page is The Unofficial Minesweeper Homepage, maintained by Vlad7. The URL is <http://www.pantek.com/minesweeper> it has neat times (my best is 136, by the way), and a very cool Poetry section where you can send in poems about Minesweeper. It also has other rad rad links. Cool! (that's where I heard about this site

Beginner: 3 seconds. Intermediate: 29 Seconds Expert: 111 Seconds. Is the record still 55 seconds? Seems do-able, maybe not by me. My hands aren't as fast as they used to be. Are there any probability experts out there that want to talk? I'm also not sure whether the fastest method is to mark the mines or just explode the squares. Also try this: 24x30 layout (the largest allowed), how many mines can you get? My best is 201, takes several months between wins.

Geoff Gittins jsmithen@idirect.com Fri Dec 20 17:42:39 PST 1996

So, after two years playing a couple of games a day, I find that I am simply an amateur: Beg 5, Int 43, Exp 152. Just too old to get much faster (but my records are still very recent), and I refuse to use markers. Minesweeper may be worse than cigarettes with regard to addictive qualities.

David Bumba DBumba Sun Mar 23 09:31:13 PST 1997

Beginner = 4 Inter. = 50 ex = 178. What are codes? Are there adjustments you can do to Minesweeper to make it go faster? Any tips or strategies?

Mike ryuken@u.washington.edu Mon Mar 24 15:24:20 PST 1997

My times are pretty much an embarassment. 7 , 62 , 201 But I promise i will break the 100 barrier within three months. i started playing the game when i saw my little sister playing who by the way is only 11 and has gotten 121 on expert!! I'm currently taking some computer science classes here and I am planning on programing tis game to learn more about the stratgedy. behind it.

Huge huge4@u.washington.edu Tue Mar 25 11:06:59 PST 1997

My friends and I have been having contests and minesweeper parties every saturday night My friends and i have been having minesweeper parties every friday night for years. I have gotten 2 on beginner three times. (I just click on the corner square, by the way someone told me the odds of this happening are about 1 in 2000 maybe i should play the lottery! Also, I have managed to get 19 on the the intermediate level by guessing like a madman!! I also regularly crank out 75- 79 on the intermediate levels, but my all time low is 65.(With maniacal guessing of course) I have put more man hours into this game then anyone I know and I surely will not break the 70 barrier with out atleast 10 - 15 guesses. The 55 world record seems possible with a LOT of luck, but seems to me to be to be akin to breaking the three minute mil you might say that it is only 10 seconds away from my 65 score but it is more prudent to lok at it in terms of the the fraction of my score that it is off. Its like a person who can get 125 expert time hoping to get under 100 by sheer luck.(Not very likely if you ask me.)

Tavis J. Millerov tmillerov@lakers.lssu.edu Wed Mar 26 07:43:22 PST 1997

You know, my friends here at college thought I should search the web to find any information about the game and if there are tournaments for it. They all swear that I am by far the best, but after looking at some of the times here, I can see that I will really have to bust my butt to beat some of these. My best times are: Beginner-10, Intermediate-40, and Expert-141. I can't believe someone did the expert in 55 seconds! That is damn near impossible!

Just found this page on an AltaVista search. I thought I was hot s#$@ with a 134 on expert, which came just a few games after a 135. I can't believe some of the scores reported here (although I'm sure they're real). E=55 does seem impossible without chemical enhancement. Minesweeper addiction is a real drain on productivity! Maybe I'll just quit for a while.

Zdenek Moravek kim@osapd.cz Wed Apr 9 10:18:52 PDT 1997

Hi, my expert=78, but since I had installed Win95 my computer does what he wants and my scores went worse. What kind of rat uses recordman as a mouse. My microsoft defender is almost ready. I didn't see his e-mail address on this page. Is the record result one and only or are there some close it.

Barbro Widerstedt Babs@natek.umu.se Thu Apr 10 09:11:38 PDT 1997

Sieben sttoxy@u.washington.edu Sun May 4 03:24:31 PDT 1997

I can't seem to break my own highscore: expert 87. because of that I've been concentrating more on consistency with times under 100 sec. Getting below 90 in damn hard. But the low 80's seem possible, if the puzzle is set up nicely Sieben

Wow, 55, that's incredible! My bests are 5, 28, and 87. I think I would need a new mouse to get below 87. Mine just isn't smooth enough anymore. =(

Hello I think that mine sweeper is way too addicting. Remember those times you were playing and you finnaly look at the clock and hours have gone by. That's when I quit playing asuming that I was probably the best player, until I saw this page. I started back up with the goal to be the best, my best time in expert level is 67(before quitting)without any cheats, I swear. I've been playing for years before I quit. My most recent time is 74. I'll update you when I get a better score. LATES!!!!
